

Welcome to Palyul Peace Park

“There is a place for everyone here.”

Open during daylight hours, the Peace Park's consecrated Stupas, serene woodlands, rustic walking trails, and meditation gardens offer spiritual refuge and nourishment for all who seek it. It is traditional to walk clockwise around stupas and to make prayers and offerings from the heart.

Stupas—sacred monuments that embody the enlightened mind of the Buddha—naturally establish peace and harmony while subduing negative forces such as war, famine and disease. The Long Life Stupa Park contains eight types of stupas, honoring the Eight Great Deeds of Lord Buddha.

Stupas built to enshrine the relics of Terton Migyur Dorje, the founder of the Palyul lineage, have been known to offer spontaneous healing to those who circumambulate them with faith.

Volunteers maintain the trails, and some may be overgrown or blocked. If you'd like to report an issue or help care for the trails or gardens, please email: volunteer@tara.org.
